CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY

The Central Intelligence Agency was established on September 20, 1947, pursuant to section 102 of the National Security Act of 1947, (Public Law 253, 80th Congress). The Director of Central Intelligence is the head of the Agency, which is under the direction of the National Security Council. The Agency is charged with coordinating the intelligence activities of the Government, in the interest of national security.

The law specifically provides that the Agency shall have no police, subpoena, or law enforcement powers, or internal security functions. However, the Director is responsible for protecting intelligence sources and methods from unauthorized disclosure.
